WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Diplomatic sources in Washington believe today that an all out Anglo-American drive to cripple Germany's war effort by air power is imminent.

The coming months are expected to witness an intensification of the Anglo-American air offensive against Germany on a scale unprecedented in the history of aerial warfare.

This great aerial onslaught against Germany's key war industries and airfields is considered likely to be the final prelude to a major Allied invasion of western Europe. A rapidly mounting number of American and British heavy bombers are expected to strike record shattering blows at German positions from the British Isles and Italy.

The German high command already has a warning from President Roosevelt that the capture by the British Eighth Army of Foggia on the Adriatic side of Italy, opens the way for powerful aerial blows against those parts of Germany which up to now have been out of range of saturation bombing.

Big Blows Coming
The Germans also have notice from British Prime Minister Winston Churchill that more powerful Allied air blows are coming.

Hurling of a thousand planes a day against Germany and Nazi occupied positions on the European continent is believed to be the aim of the Anglo-American air chiefs.

When these vast armadas of the sky start operating on a round-the-clock schedule, the American and British air chiefs are said to be confident that Germany's war effort will be quickly softened to the point where an Anglo-American invasion of northern Europe can be effected with a saving of thousands of lives of Allied soldiers.

In addition to smashing Germany's war industries, the coming full scale aerial offensive is intended to drive the Luftwaffe out of the skies over Europe. Latest reports indicate that the German air force already is running out of its reserve of fighter planes.

Germany now is believed to have not more than 5,000 first line combat planes. About 1,800 of these are thought to be on the Russian front. A similar number are believed to be on the western front, with the remainder scattered through the Mediterranean area. The German air force also is thought to have some 2,000 bombers, but the present whereabouts of the majority of these planes is a mystery.

U. S. Fleets Hit So Hard Nazis Forced to Draft Crews for Submarines

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—A report from the chief of America's anti-submarine campaign disclosed today the existence of at least 10 United States fleets and revealed that the Germans are now drafting U-boat crews as they face demoralization of their undersea war.

The information came from a radio interview granted by Rear Admiral Francis S. Low, assistant chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, in charge of anti-submarine warfare.

Low revealed that the 10th fleet was organized to rid the Atlantic of U-boats, and said it played an important part in recently destroying 90 submarines in three months. "I think we can say that while they may again threaten, the U-boat has failed once and for all to break our lifeline across the Atlantic," Low declared. "At recent rate of sinkings, the U-boat fleet is undergoing an attrition it cannot stand."

The admiral stated that from now on the effectiveness of the German undersea campaign "will be steadily reduced." He added there were indications that the Nazis already are being forced to draft submarine crews.

"We might compare the plight of the Nazi navy today with that which faced it during the final months of 1917," he added. "Successful anti-sub warfare is today hastening the same kind of demoralization which broke the U-boats then."

Low declined to amplify his statement about the 10th American fleet, but said that it was organized last Spring, about the time that sinkings of merchant vessels dropped sharply.

It was recalled that Secretary of the Navy Knox several months ago revealed the existence of eight American fleets in all parts of the world, but he declined to identify all of them.

These facts would indicate that the United States also has a ninth fleet and possibly others which will not be made public until the enemy learns about them in action.

In his interview, Low also pointed out that from May to August of this year, more than 4,000 ships of the United Nations crossed the Atlantic safely in convoy.

Low also said that 260 destroyer escort vessels will be produced this year. He reported that 36 craft of this type were completed in August alone.

He warned, however, that the Germans still have hundreds of submarines which undoubtedly will cause the Allies heavy losses before they are finally driven from the seas.

WAR BOND TOTAL HITS $635,190; DRIVE EXTENDED

Hopes of the Pickaway county War Finance Committee that success in the campaign here for $1,331,000 may move nearer to realization were raised Wednesday when Clark Will, campaign chairman, said the Treasury department has extended the drive for the sale of some of the issues now offered through the end of this week. The committee is also given until October 16 to clear all Series E, F and G bonds through Federal Reserve banks for credit in the drive.

Subscriptions for 2 1/2% of 1946-49, 2% of 1951-53 and 1/2% percent certificates of indebtedness will be closed at midnight Saturday, October 2.

The campaign chairman said sales in some areas have been picking up during the last few days, agricultural area solicitors selling more bonds. Sales to date total $635,190 on 1,699 sales.

"Solicitors are urged to use the two additional days to see all people in their territory," the chairman declared, "but they are urged to have their reports turned in daily until the end of the drive."

Mr. Will sold $200 in bonds to an unnamed Wayne township man who said he had been unable to hire corn cutters so had to cut all his corn himself and had put the money he would have spent for corn cutters into War Bonds.

The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. gave the campaign a boost when it announced that a $10,000 subscription in 1/2 percent certificates of indebtedness had been doubled.

An official announcement in London yesterday disclosed that the youthful king and his cabinet had departed from London to establish themselves at a point closer to the homeland.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Industrial, labor and newspaper leaders who attended the war department's "victory mobilization" conference in Washington predicted today that the United States would have a generation of prosperity after the war with "jeeps for sale" signs in the windows of now-empty automobile salesrooms.

"If we all work together," said Ward Canaday, the Toledo, Ohio maker of jeeps, "prosperity is ahead of this country for at least a generation after the war ends."

The war department's two day meeting, attended by more than 200 of the nation's outstanding industrialists, labor leaders and newspaper editors, ended late yesterday with the Army putting on an impressive demonstration of a landing operation under simulated battle conditions at nearby Fort Belvoir, Va.

Hard Road to Victory

Prior to that, War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson warned that the "roads to Berlin and Tokyo are still long, hard and bloody." They expressed the main theme of the conference. It was that while American production has been spectacular there must be no letup to ensure an early victory.

Many of those attending the conference were frankly more interested in postwar industrial mobilization. But once they were given the cold facts of what the armed forces needed in the way of production to win the war, they said that they were impressed.

They came away, too, with the opinion that the army did not want to keep the thirty million dollars worth of war plants the government now owns once the war is over. They were given a promise, too, that the system of free competitive bidding, not the present direct negotiation and renegotiation of government contracts, would be restored after the war.

Strive For Peace

Their main thought was, as they left Washington, let's get the war over with by giving the army all it needs on time and then start converting for the postwar prosperity era.

Brecke, a former vice commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion and for eight years secretary of the Republican statutory committee, declined to comment.

Plans for Quick Vote On Dad Draft Balked And Debate Continues

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Plans of senate leaders to force a quick vote on the Wheeler bill deferring the draft of fathers were disrupted today with debate likely to continue for several days.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont., who opened debate with a four-hour speech, planned to continue again today, with Sen. Sheridan Downey (D) Calif., scheduled to follow him with an argument for the bill.

"I have no idea when we will be able to reach a vote on the bill," said Majority Leader Barkley. "I hope that we can vote this week, but I do not know when we will reach it."

BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE TOLD TO OBEY CEILINGS

CHICAGO, Sept. 29—Montgomery Ward & Co., was under a preliminary injunction today, forbidding the huge mail order house from exceeding price ceilings on garments.

The injunction was issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes on the basis of charges by the Office of Price Administration that OPA regulation 330 was violated in 26 Ward retail stores in 25 cities. The complaint listed 73 alleged violations in sales of women's, children's and misses' outer garments at $1 to $13.25 above maximum prices set.

In issuing the injunction Judge Barnes said: "The court is satisfied that the defendant is guilty of violating maximum prices and also the court is satisfied that the defendant has made no attempt whatsoever to comply with this regulation."

MARINES TAKE NANUMEA ISLAND IN ELLICE GROUP

HONOLULU, Sept. 29—The island of Nanumea, northernmost of the Ellice group in the South Pacific, was occupied September 4 by United States Marines, headquarters of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz revealed today.

News of the occupation for purposes of constructing an air base came with the release of photographs showing the Marines there. Nanumea is the second of the Ellice islands to be occupied by American forces. The landing of Yanks on Funafuti was announced last April. Nanumea is only 500 miles from the Jap base of Tarawa in the Gilbert islands to the north.

Huns Up To Old Tricks Of Battle

Nazis Indicate Willingness To Surrender, Then Ambush Troops

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 29—The Germans are up to their old tricks in Italy. Just as in Sicily they are using a pretended surrender as an ambush, according to soldiers on this front.

At least five times in this sector the foe has indicated a willingness to give up, then ambushed our troops when they exposed their position.

The latest instance was related by Lieutenant Richard J. Hertel of Erie, Pa., who led a patrol which ran into some typically double-dealing Germans today.

"We had a mission to clear a hill where we knew there were German entrenchments," Hertel said.

"Previous to our attack the hill had been covered effectively with mortar fire, and when we came up I heard a German shouting 'Ich habe genuch! — Halt feur!' (I have had enough—hold your fire)."

"I told him to come up the road, but he never did. He was just trying to locate my position."

"Later, about midnight we found a machine gun position and knocked it out with grenades, killing both men in it."

"Then a German paratrooper sitting in a fox hole nearby indicated he wanted to surrender but he seemed so frightened he wouldn't come out."

"I was still talking to him when from the left a few minutes later another German shouted that he had had enough. I shouted 'come over.' And the German having located me by the sound of my voice threw a grenade which injured two men of my small force."

"That is typical. The krauts did the same thing in Sicily."

FINCH MURDER TRIAL SET BACK TO NOVEMBER 1

Trial of Charles Finch, 46, alias Donald Eugene Carson, in Connersville, Ind., for the first degree murder in 1938 of Joseph Schoenfeld, 69-year-old farmer, has been postponed until November 1.

The trial was scheduled to open Monday, but was postponed when a motion to quash the indictment against Finch was filed by defense counsel. The motion was overruled, but the case was delayed regardless.

Finch, alias Carson, a former resident of the Williamsport community, was taken to Indiana from the Pickaway county jail where he was held for non-support. A check of his fingerprints by the F. B. I. disclosed that the prisoner was wanted in Indiana for the 1938 murder.

SUPERIORITY OF HUN MEN TAUGHT GIRLS IN BUND

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 29 — Girl recruits of the pro-Nazi German American Bund youth group were taught that men are superior, 18-year-old Toni Molik, a former member, declared today.

She testified for the government in federal court in the denaturalization proceedings against 14 citizens of German birth. She said she joined the Bund's youth group Maedchenschaft in 1936 through a girl and quit the organization after a year and a half. She said:

"I always had an inferior feeling—a little at first, but not so much as later. We were taught that men were superior and that women ought to be modest and very domestic. We were told that a woman hasn't anything to say except to mind her own business."

Desperate German attempts to defend the city of Naples from direct Allied attack failed today when troops of the United States Fifth Army crashed through Nazi strongholds and streamed out into the Naples plain.

After six days of savage fighting, the Germans acknowledged their battle was a losing one.

They abandoned their strategic high points in the mountains that stand before Naples and fell back in the face of unrelenting onslaughts by Fifth Army forces.

At Fringe of City
A London report said the Americans had surged into the ruins of ancient Pompeii on the southeastern fringe of Naples.

Both north and west of Naples the American army scored a breakthrough, forcing the Germans into withdrawal. Lieut. Gen. Mark Wayne Clark's troops surged on toward the southern foothills of Mt. Vesuvius in pursuit of the retreating Nazis.

(A United States commentator on the Algiers radio said that the Allies already are within the suburbs of Naples itself. The broadcast was heard by Reuters.)

Tanks and other armored units of the Fifth Army plunged into Naples' outskirts, and there was every indication at the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that the city itself might be taken without the major battle anticipated.

It was generally believed that Field Marshal Albert Kesselring had decided to abandon the city, now that everything of military value has been destroyed by his incendiaries.

Both north and west of Naples the American army scored a breakthrough, forcing the Germans into withdrawal. Lieut. Gen. Mark Wayne Clark's troops surged on toward the southern foothills of Mt. Vesuvius in pursuit of the retreating Nazis.

(A United States commentator on the Algiers radio said that the Allies already are within the suburbs of Naples itself. The broadcast was heard by Reuters.)

Tanks and other armored units of the Fifth Army plunged into Naples' outskirts, and there was every indication at the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that the city itself might be taken without the major battle anticipated.

It was generally believed that Field Marshal Albert Kesselring had decided to abandon the city, now that everything of military value has been destroyed by his incendiaries.

wide plain that stands before Naples.

The prospect of taking the city in short order is "most bright," a spokesman said.

It was expected that units of the British Eighth Army from its position at Foggia, on the eastern side of the peninsula, were ready to strike westward along a 90-mile roadway to hit the Germans in the Naples area from the rear.

Not only is the Eighth Army now in a position to drive west on Naples but also Gen. Montgomery can smash to the northwest in the direction of Rome with a formidable cover of fighter planes based at the Foggia airfields, the greatest airbase in southern Italy. The possibilities for heavy bomber assaults on the Balkans and on southern Germany also are vast.

Germans Whipped

The left wing of the Fifth Army battled its way forward in grueling hand-to-hand encounters through the mountain passes north of Salerno to gain passage to the plain before Naples.

The right wing of Gen. Clark's forces moved rapidly and occupied Lioni and Castelnuovo after grappling with the Germans in bitter mountain warfare.

Toughest opposition was encountered by the Fifth Army forces closest to Naples where the Germans concentrated the main portion of their defense forces, but the Americans and Britons made steady headway.

Fighter-bombers ranged over the battle area and swooped down through breaks in the clouds to batter German defense positions and troop concentrations.

Although unfavorable weather forced a curtailment for the last two days in heavy bomber operations some light bomber forces were able to continue operations against enemy communications north of Naples and in the vicinity of Rome. Warhawks also streaked 50 miles north of Foggia to cut up a train with bursts of machine-gun fire and also strafed a convoy of German trucks.

Japs Hard Hit

From the southwest Pacific came word of a crippling blow at Japanese air reinforcements and shipping at Wewak, New Guinea. Fighter-escorted heavy and medium bombers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command destroyed at least 50 grounded enemy planes at the Wewak. But, Dagua and Boran airdromes and shot down eight others in combat over the target. Swooping low over Wewak harbor, the bombers wrecked four merchant vessels and three tankers and destroyed or damaged 29 barges and luggers. Three Allied bombers were shot down by enemy aircraft fire.

Meanwhile Australian ground troops within three quarters of a mile of the besieged enemy shipping base at Finschhafen seized strategic heights north of the town, advanced to a creek nearby on the west and pummeled the Jap garrison with field artillery shells.

At the same time, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in Honolulu announced that the Marines have landed on one of the Ellice islands east of the Solomons, providing the Allies with an airbase within striking distance of a Jap base 500 miles to the north in the Gilbert islands.

Russia's Red army massed all along the east bank of the Dnieper river in the Ukraine for new assaults against the retreating Germans. One Russian spearhead overran 30 towns on the west bank of the Dnieper above Kiev, threatening to encircle the Ukraine capital. Other Soviet forces plunged farther into White Russia in drives seriously threatening the Nazi bastions of Vitebsk, Orsha and Gomel on the last German-held north-south railroad.

He expressed hope that the army would allow his company, after the war, to buy up the surplus army jeeps it makes and market them through their regular salesrooms. This, he added, would "hide the company over" during its re-conversion period when it would tool up to give the country a small car he hopes will sell by the millions.

Canada, other business men and even labor leaders expressed hope that the Army high command would hold more meetings of the kind. R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO's Automotive Workers Union, stated:

"I have been called into various meetings by various war agencies in Washington and often asked, or told, to do this or that. This is the first conference that actually told us why. That's the reason I appreciate it so much."

Uniquely business leaders said the same thing in almost the same words. Most of the industrial leaders were concerned, too, about postwar conversion. Fred C. Heinz, of the H. J. Heinz Co., Pittsburgh, said that the postwar plans of his company were well underway. Development of many South American foods is expected, he said.

Charles R. Hook, of Middletown, Ohio, president of the American Rolling Mills, said that the conversion of the steel industry would not be an enormous problem.

A. V. Murray, executive vice president of the Scaife company, Pittsburgh, and David J. McDonald, international secretary-treasurer of the CIO's United Steel Workers, urged a "minimum of government interference" in the conversion of war production to peacetime needs.

This meeting probably brought labor and capital closer together than any similar convocation. The labor and business leaders, after listening to impassioned pleas of the top Army officials for more production, went home with the determination to deliver the goods the Army needs. They went home, too, with a belief in ultimate victory and the thought expressed by CIO Leader Thomas that "even now there must be more planning for postwar industrial demobilization to prevent mass unemployment and provide a period of prosperity."

Native of Circleville Plays Active Role In Fights Against Japan

Robert A. Pearce, 23, a native of Circleville and a brother of Francis Pearce, 603 East Mound street, is one of the real veterans of the war. Spending a leave in Gridley, Ill. with his grandmother, Mrs. A. D. Sedekin, with whom he made his home before he entered service, Pearce revealed that he had been cast adrift twice in the southwest Pacific.

Young Pearce, son of Arthur Pearce, who now lives in Columbus, is an aviation machinist's mate. In addition to the brother he has uncles, aunts and cousins in Circleville and Pickaway county.

On an occasion, Pearce recalls, a Catalina flying boat on which he was a crew member, was attacked by a Jap bomber and a crash landing on the water was necessary. Two of the crew were killed. The flying boat was scuttled and the remaining members of the crew spent three days in rubber boats. Although they were sighted by Allied planes, Pearce declares, the planes could not land because of rough water. They were finally picked up by a ship, directed to their location by the planes.

Pearce was in another flying boat which was shot down at night during a torpedo run. The entire crew was rescued a few hours later at daylight.

The sailor enlisted March 6, 1941, in Gridley and was at Kanehoe Bay, Hawaii, when the Japanese struck. He was in the Midway battle June 2, 1942, and last July he was assigned to New Caledonia and later to the Solomons island area where he was engaged in six months of fighting.

Pearce was eating breakfast at Kanehoe bay when orders were broadcast to fight a fire which had

Native of Circleville Plays Active Role In Fights Against Japan

Robert A. Pearce, 23, a native of Circleville and a brother of Francis Pearce, 603 East Mound street, is one of the real veterans of the war. Spending a leave in Gridley, Ill., with his grandmother, Mrs. A. D. Sedekin, with whom he made his home before he entered service, Pearce revealed that he had been cast adrift twice in the southwest Pacific.

Young Pearce, son of Arthur Pearce, who now lives in Columbus, is an aviation machinist's mate. In addition to the brother he has uncles, aunts and cousins in Circleville and Pickaway county.

On one occasion, Pearce recalls, a Catalina flying boat on which he was a crew member, was attacked by a Jap bomber and a crash landing on the water was necessary. Two of the crew were killed. The flying boat was scuttled and the remaining members of the crew spent three days in rubber boats. Although they were sighted by Allied planes, Pearce declares, the planes could not land because of rough water. They were finally picked up by a ship, directed to their location by the planes.

Pearce was in another flying boat which was shot down at night during a torpedo run. The entire crew was rescued a few hours later at daylight.

The sailor enlisted March 6, 1941, in Gridley and was at Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, when the Japanese struck. He was in the Midway battle June 2, 1942, and last July he was assigned to New Caledonia and later to the Solomons island area where he was engaged in six months of fighting.

Pearce was eating breakfast at Kaneohe bay when orders were broadcast to fight a fire which had

Funeral services will be Friday at 2 p. m. at the Snyder funeral home, Mt. Sterling, with burial in Mt. Sterling cemetery.

Regulations Covering Price Programs, Office Duty Outlined By OPA

New regulations covering several phases of Office of Price Administration programs and information concerning other duties of the office are outlined Wednesday by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office.

Among phases covered are pricing methods for bakery route sellers, information concerning blue ration stamps, shoe merchants' inventories and 4-H club livestock.

The information follows:

Routesellers' Methods

Retailers of bakery products who buy these products in bulk and sell them wrapped or packaged will be allowed to add to their maximum prices the actual cost of packaging and wrapping materials.

The allowance will apply to all cakes, pies, sweet yeast raised products, doughnuts and pastries and will result in an increase of about one cent a package to the ultimate consumer. This allowance does not apply to producers of bakery goods who sell them wrapped or packaged.

Today's amendment also clarifies the wholesalers' and routesellers' pricing methods. It provides that their maximum price in sales to ultimate consumers, and, in the case of routesellers to wholesalers and other routesellers, shall be the same as the producers' maximum prices on sales to these buyers.

Last of the Blue Stamps

Blue Stamps "X", "Y", and "Z" the last blue stamps in War Ration Book Two, will be used by consumers for buying processed foods from October 1 through November 20.

Stamps "U", "V", and "W", expire on October 20. This provides the usual overlap period of 20 days for using old and new processed food stamps.

The next series of stamps to be

SHERIFF DOUBTS ARMY RECORD OF AUTO THIEF

Private Harold L. Stevens, 21, on leave from Camp Shelby, Miss., army base, admitted Tuesday, Sheriff Charles Radcliff said, the theft of the automobile of Henry Swearingen, South Court street. Stevens is being held in county jail pending hearing, and pending investigation of theft of the car two weeks ago of Richard H. Orr, New Holland. Stevens' army service status will be checked, the sheriff doubting the soldier's story that he had been at his home in Madison Mills, west of New Holland, for only the last three days.

The soldier denied taking the Orr automobile, although the sheriff said an inspection slip for the Orr car tires was found in his pockets. Proof that he stole the Orr car would prove his story concerning his furlough to be false. The Orr car was found abandoned in Circleville during the week end. Stevens was taken into custody on York street, and the sheriff said he readily admitted taking the Swearingen car which was parked in front of a house there.

The sheriff gave credit for the arrest to Joe Brink, employee of the Coca Cola plant, Brink was at the sheriff's office Monday evening when the car theft was reported. He rode with Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious for awhile Monday night, searching rural roads for the automobile. The search was fruitless, but Brink, driving south on Court street, Tuesday, saw a car turn into York street which he thought fit the description of the Swearingen automobile. He called the sheriff's office and the arrest was made.

Stevens told the sheriff his father lives at Madison Mills. While auto theft charges are expected to be filed, disposition of the case will not be decided until word is received from army authorities concerning the soldier's status.

Panama is switching from left to right-hand motor vehicles driving, in anticipation of the opening of the inter-American highway.

HEALTH QUIZ

- Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
- Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐ ☐
- Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐ ☐
- Do you feel tired—listless? ☐ ☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—be sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

- 1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
- 2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people—especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood. A growing person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies. S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient and to promote those factors which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair. These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite... firm flesh... body energy... mental alertness!

MORE OIL THAN WATER

EVER WONDERED JUST HOW IMPORTANT OIL IS TO AMERICA? WE ACTUALLY USE MORE OIL THAN DRINKING WATER! (AN AVERAGE OF 17 QUARTS A DAY PER FAMILY IN 1944) IN MAKING STEEL, FOR EXAMPLE, IT TAKES A BARREL OF OIL TO PRODUCE EACH TON.

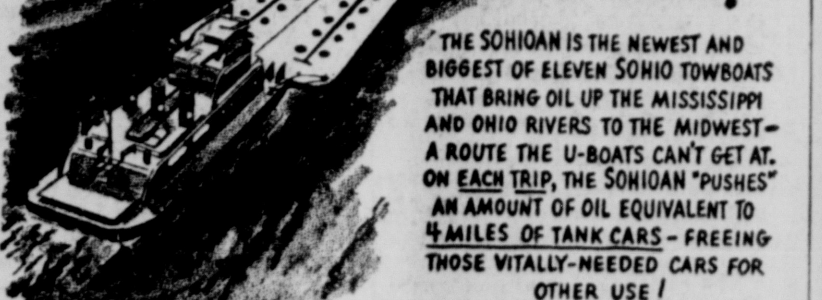

RUBBER THAT GROWS UNDER THE GROUND!

FROM DEEP IN THE EARTH COMES OIL. AND NOW, THANKS TO A MIRACLE OF PETROLEUM CHEMISTRY, AMERICA IS GETTING SYNTHETIC RUBBER FROM THAT OIL.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR OUR PLANES, TANKS, SHIPS AND GUNS — FOR OUR TRUCKS AND CARS. SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR VICTORY!

SUB-FIGHTER... ON THE OHIO!

THE SOHIOAN IS THE NEWEST AND BIGGEST OF ELEVEN SOHIO TOWBOATS THAT BRING UP THE MISSISSIPPI AND OHIO RIVERS TO THE MIDWEST—A ROUTE THE U-BOATS CAN'T GET AT. ON EACH TRIP, THE SOHIOAN "PUSHES" AN AMOUNT OF OIL EQUIVALENT TO 4 MILES OF TANK CARS—FREEING THOSE VITALLY-NEEDED CARS FOR OTHER USE!

NEW 57-MM. ANTITANK SHELLS THAT CUT THROUGH THICK ENEMY TANK ARMOR LIKE BUTTER ARE NOW BEING MADE IN OHIO. AND THE SHELL CAP THAT MAKES THIS POSSIBLE OWES ITS EXTREME TOUGHNESS TO A NEW KIND

OF OIL DEVELOPED BY SOHIO. THIS REMARKABLE "CUTTING OIL" PERMITS THE CAPS TO BE MADE OF THE SAME HARD STEEL AS IS USED IN THE MACHINE TOOLS THAT SHAPE IT!

DID YOU KNOW THIS?
4,500 "A" ration coupons an hour! Just one U. S. mechanized division, traveling at normal road speed, burns up 18,000 gallons of gasoline an hour—the equivalent of 4,500 "A" gas coupons!

Oil is ammunition! In one of our Navy Yards, 3,000 workers travel between 60 and 85 miles by automobile every day. They have no other way of getting to work.

Asphalt in a new dress. Every day hundreds of tons of SOHIO Asphalt are trucked out of our refineries for war use. To save steel, SOHIO

Asphalt is now shipped in newly-developed paper drums.

Butyl—a name to remember. Most common type of synthetic rubber at present is Buna S. However, the oil industry is also making BUTYL synthetic rubber, which is especially useful for gas masks, raincoats, rubber boots, barrage balloons and many other war necessities.

Hot or cold—they work! An outstanding accomplishment of the petroleum industry has been to supply our armed forces with lubricants and fuels which enable equipment to operate equally well in all types of climates—from Alaska to the tropics.

Regulations Covering Price Programs, Office Duty Outlined By OPA

New regulations covering several phases of Office of Price Administration programs and information concerning other duties of the office are outlined Wednesday by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office.

Among phases covered are pricing methods for bakery route sellers, information concerning blue ration stamps, shoe merchants' inventories and 4-H club livestock.

The information follows:

Routemethods

Retailers of bakery products who buy these products in bulk and sell them wrapped or packaged will be allowed to add to their maximum prices the actual cost of packaging and wrapping materials.

The allowance will apply to all cakes, pies, sweet yeast raised products, doughnuts and pastries and will result in an increase of about one cent a package to the ultimate consumer. This allowance does not apply to producers of bakery goods who sell them wrapped or packaged.

Today's amendment also clarifies the wholesalers' and routemethods' pricing methods. It provides that their maximum price in sales to ultimate consumers, and, in the case of routemethods to wholesalers and other routemethods, shall be the same as the producers' maximum prices on sales to these buyers.

Last of the Blue Stamps

Blue Stamps "X", "Y", and "Z" the last blue stamps in War Ration Book Two, will be used by consumers for buying processed foods from October 1 through November 20.

Stamps "U", "V", and "W", expire on October 20. This provides the usual overlap period of 20 days for using old and new processed food stamps.

JAPANESE-AMERICANS

The Japanese-American problem is taking a new form. Those whose loyalty has been thoroughly investigated by the FBI and found trustworthy are being transferred to eastern and central parts of the country. One midwestern city already has 300, all under 30 years of age, most of them under 25. The government is now trying to find them work, and homes outside of the slum districts. Many are doing confidential work for Uncle Sam.

In view of the treachery displayed by so many Japanese fighting men, it is natural to suspect people of that race. And the FBI shares that tendency. Therefore, if these federal experts say that a Japanese-American is loyal, private citizens with fewer opportunities to know the truth should hesitate to question it.

Loyal Japanese-Americans have, because of their race, a hard row to hoe. It is not necessarily patriotism to make it harder.

FOOTBALL BY RADIO

If you are planning to see the Notre Dame-Navy game or some other football match of the same caliber, it may be wise to give up the idea. Unless you live where the game will be held, you will be unable to get tickets. The Office of Defense Transportation has asked all teams to restrict sales to residents of the immediate community. Last year, by presidential order, only residents of Annapolis could get tickets for the Army-Navy game held there. In 1943 the rule will be general.

Thus passes for the duration that widespread and pleasant college custom of the home-coming game, when all alumni who could beg, buy or steal transportation came to the big home game against their college's ancient rival. It was an event looked forward to a long time ahead, and remembered a long time afterward. This year such festivals are out.

Maybe the radio will do as a substitute. In fact it will have to.

WALKING

A large city skyscraper lately had a short-lived strike of elevator operators. Coming at noon, it found scores of business men lunching in the Chamber of Commerce on the top floor. The newspapers described them as "marooned there," like shipwrecked passengers on a desert island.

What is not clear is why they did not walk down. Being on the top floor, they had the force of gravity to assist. Philosophers have sometimes predicted that the constant use of automobiles would destroy ability to walk. Has this stage come already?

MARRIAGE BAN PROBLEM

WASHINGTON—John Hubner, the young diplomat who saved the Queen Mary with around 10,000 American troops on board, has just resigned. His resignation illustrates one of the fundamental problems in keeping alert American diplomatic service—marriage to foreign women.

In this case Hubner is marrying the niece of the Archbishop of Sao Paulo in Brazil. To do so the State department has told him he must resign.

This means the loss of a man with many years experience, also one who proved himself especially quick-witted in a major emergency.

More than a year ago, the Nazi radio announced that the Queen Mary, crammed with U. S. troops, was sunk off Brazil. From the War department came complete silence. In order not to play into Nazi hands, no word of explanation was given as to what actually had happened to the Queen Mary. There was a good reason for this. Here is what happened.

PLOT AGAINST QUEEN MARY

Up to Sao Paulo, central state of Brazil, the State department's John Hubner had discovered that a large radio transmitter had been imported by the German firm of Siemens and Co., and was being held for delivery to a purchaser. The address of that purchaser was phony and probably the name also.

So Hubner had the efficient Brazilian police watch the Siemens store night and day to see who might take delivery of the radio transmitter. No one came. Finally, one evening at 6:45, just before the store closed, a German picked up the radio transmitter. He was immediately arrested, subjected to stiff cross-examination, and after many hours finally broke down. He disclosed the names of his confederates, together with the location of a Nazi radio station in the hills above Rio de Janeiro.

Hubner, working with the cooperative Brazilian police, immediately rounded up the gang, and flew to Rio where the radio station was seized—just as it was sending out a message to Nazi subs regarding the sailing of the Queen Mary.

It had been a perfect Nazi trap. The Queen Mary had put in at Rio for fuel and supplies. She was too big to hide. Nazi agents in Rio learned her sailing time, discovered her route and flashed this to lurking U-boats.

So sure was Berlin of this set-up, that it actually announced the sinking of the Queen Mary to the world.

What the Nazis did not know was that Hubner and the Brazilian police had seized their radio station, and that the course of the Queen Mary immediately was changed.

Last month Hubner asked the State department for permission to marry a Brazilian girl. His request was refused. He resigned.

Several Remedies Suggested for Acne

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"PIMPLES" is what the teasing brother calls it. The victim prefers the more dignified term, "acne," although its full scientific name is not much more impressive than

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"Pimples"—"acne vulgaris," the vulgar acne, or the common acne. Common it is. An estimate puts the number of adolescent boys or girls who have some form of it at 70 per cent—including greasy skin and blackheads. A severe case is torture for the owner. An old man can stand an acne rosacea—red bulbous nose and all—but for a kid just starting the primrose path to have the face covered with pimples, that is manifestly unfair. It must seem to such a victim that it should be very easy to cure. All you have to do is get rid of the pimples and keep the grease off the skin and express the blackheads. But as experience teaches in the severe cases, this is by no means easy.

Treatments Suggested
The treatments that have been suggested are: (1) local treatment of the skin—degreasing and antiseptic lotions, (2) endocrine preparations, (3) vitamins and liver extract, (4) X-ray, (5) vaccines and (6) diet.

The reason for using any of these is fairly obvious. It is a condition confined to one locality of the skin, therefore local treatment is indicated. It occurs at puberty when all the endocrines should be in a lather of activity, but some of them may fall behind; therefore supplement them. It is a sluggish infection, therefore vaccines can be used to stimulate it. The X-ray kills infection.

The rationale for vitamins and diet is a little different. Cases are improved sometimes by the use of ultra-violet light. Since ultra-violet activates ergosterol in the skin and ergosterol is a provitamin, the treatment is equivalent to the administration of vitamin D. Improvement has been reported by several dermatologists on this treatment.

Sutton's Diet
Under diet the old restrictions used to be on cutting down of the carbohydrates—candy-forbidden regime. This, however, has proved quite valueless. Some patients were hospitalized and given high starch diets and improved. More reasonable is a low fat diet. There is unquestionably in all cases some disturbance of the fat metabolism of the skin. The foods forbidden in Sutton's diet are:

All fried foods, cream, ice cream, butter, butter substitutes, cheese (except cottage cheese), milk, lard, other cooking fat, yolk of egg, shortened foods (pie crust, biscuits, crackers, etc.), sausage, Spanish mackerel, shad, salmon, sardines, brains, potato chips, chocolate, cocoa, nuts, peanut butter, oatmeal, cod-liver oil, cream soup, gravy, pork, bacon, ham, catfish, smoked herring, canned fish, tuna, mutton.

Foods Permitted

This leaves quite a substantial number of things that are permitted, as follows:

Breakfast: Orange juice, cream of wheat (sugar, but no cream or milk), toast (no butter), jelly, white of egg poached, coffee (sugar, no cream).

Noon Meal: Cooked rice (sugar if desired), boiled or baked potato, bread (no butter), jam, any vegetable (no butter), lean beef, any fruit, coffee or tea (no cream or milk), gelatin.

There are probably many factors in the causation of any case of acne, so multiple remedies are indicated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. R.: What is the cause of Bursitis? What treatment do you advise?

Answer: Bursitis is the inflammation of a bursa, the lubricating sac around a joint. It may be any joint, but commonly the shoulder, knee, elbow or ankle. Heat and time will relieve nearly all cases.

B. P.: Does a pain in the chest always mean angina pectoris? If not, what are some other reasons that will bring about this condition? Will constant worry about one's self and neurasthenia bring on this condition?

Answer: I should say that pain in the chest is something else many times more often than it is angina pectoris. Worry, nervous conditions, hearing about someone else who had angina, tobacco, exertion, pericarditis, slipping ribs, pleurisy, are all among the cause.

JACK, his face registering utter surprise, stepped back to allow Brenda to come out of the barn's harness room.

All Adam could do was to stare and feel even sillier.

"Aren't you two a little old to be playing games?" said Brenda, as she brushed a cobweb out of her hair.

"We're not playing games," said Jack.

"Certainly not," Adam said. "We had reason for searching the place. What the devil are YOU doing out here?"

"Research work," said Brenda. "I'm working on one of the Linville short stories, and I wanted to describe an old barn. I came here to get my information first-hand."

She looked at Adam and then at Jack. "Now you two explain—after nearly scaring the life out of me."

Jack grinned. "Well, don't think you didn't scare us," he said.

"Come on out to the car," Adam said, "and we'll tell all."

Then, when they were out in the sunshine, he nodded toward the car tracks. "See those?" he said.

"Yes," said Brenda. "My car made them."

"Oh!" said Adam and Jack in unison.

"I drove in to turn around," Brenda continued, "and then left the car over by those scrub pines."

Adam looked at Jack and said, "There goes our clue."

"Yes," said Jack. "But I saw the car without the license, just the same."

"What are you two talking about?" Brenda demanded.

And they told her, the three of them sitting in Adam's car.

Brenda listened with interest. "Come to think of it," she said, "I have had a suspicion that I've seen a light out this way. A week ago, when I drove out to the old Leigh place, and came out by the Johnson farm to see if the house still was standing."

"What sort of light?" said Adam.

"I don't know exactly. It was just a sort of flash—you know, like someone passing a window with a lantern or a candle."

"Tramps, probably," said Adam. "Anyway," he added, "if there's any mischief going on around here, there are certainly no physical signs. Deserted house, empty barn, sagging corn-crib, battered smoke house, and a lonely old well."

"Which reminds me," said Brenda, "that I'm thirsty."

"The well won't do you any good," said Jack. "It's probably dry, and if it isn't the water's not safe for drinking. It's probably swarming with typhoid germs."

Adam looked at his watch. "I have to be getting back to the factory. Susan Potter will be having a fit."

"What about?" Brenda said.

"About our appointment," Adam replied. "She was due at 10, but after Jack told me what he'd seen last night, I thought we'd better lose no time in investigating. Susan's going to begin her cafeteria job today."

"Oh, I see," said Brenda. Jack said, "You two wait here, I'm going to have a look at that old smokehouse."

Adam and Brenda watched him cross the yard.

"Cigarette?" Adam said.

"Thanks," said Brenda. Then, when Adam had lit it for her and lit one for himself, she said, "Do you really think Susan Potter is capable of running the cafeteria?"

"I don't know about that. She's not going to run it, exactly, but take over the planning of the meals. She has some good ideas."

"Well, here's luck," Brenda said—and again wished she'd gone in for cooking instead of writing. Jack hurried back to them. "I had a look at the well, too," he said. "Looks to me as though someone's been trying to rig up a way to get water out of it."

"Those tramps again," said Adam. "Hop in, Jack, we have to be on our way."

"You can drop me over by my own car," said Brenda. She glanced at Adam. "How goes the filling-in business?"

"Falling off," Adam smiled at Brenda. "When are you going to ask me out to the old Leigh place again—to show you those sketches for remodeling the place?"

"I don't know. I hate hording in on married life—and you do seem to be much in demand."

Adam felt his face redden. "I'd like very much to come out," he said, "whenever it happens to be convenient."

"We'll set a date soon," said Brenda. "It's hard to plan an evening, now that rehearsing has begun. Mrs. Platt will keep us all on the jump."

Adam stopped his car and helped Brenda out. Then when he saw her safely in her own car, he drove off, speeding up as soon as he reached the main road.

"Why in heck don't you go for Brenda in a big way?" Jack asked. "I'm not her type," said Adam.

"Town girl who makes success in big city doesn't fall for town boy who stayed at home—and stagnated."

"You haven't stagnated. You've gone as far in your way as she has in hers. Besides, she likes you."

"Listen, Jack," Adam said, "cut out matmak and stick to tool-making."

"Okay," said Jack, and fell silent.

But he was still puzzled about the car he had seen the night before. And had he been able to read Adam's mind, he would have discovered that he, too, was puzzled, and not a little worried.

Armour, Envoys to Argentina, Hull's Rebuke of Buenos Aires May Not Return to His Post Government Causing Changes

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—The chances that Norman Armour, ace career diplomat, will return to his post as United States ambassador to Argentina are fading fast.

Since Armour's return to Washington for consultation, Secretary of State Hull has made public a rebuke he administered the Buenos Aires government in correspondence with Admiral Segundo Storni, foreign minister in the Ramirez government.

Hull told Storni that Argentina could expect no lend-lease or other form of aid from Washington as long as Argentina failed to live up to her inter-American commitments to sever diplomatic relations with the Axis.

The Argentinian statesman had suggested that the United States give increased assistance to his country—and Hull's castigation led to Storni's resignation and a near crisis in Argentina.

Then, only last Sunday, Hull addressed the nation and, referring to Latin-American nations, said the United States had friendly dealings with all but one of the Americas.

Meanwhile, Armour has worked busily at the state department and not even seen reporters.

There have been reports that he might be named undersecretary of state to succeed Sumner Welles, who has resigned but whose resignation presumably lies unaccepted on President Roosevelt's desk.

One possible development might be that Roosevelt might name Welles as ambassador to Argentina while Armour took Welles' job at the department.

However, it is doubtful if Welles would accept the post—expert as he is in his favorite field of Latin-American affairs.

Moreover, Welles has never pulled his punches about Argentina's lack of co-operation in the war, while he has been a staunch champion of Brazil—Argentina's big rival south of the Rio Grande.

In fact, Welles reportedly once told a prominent Brazilian statesman that the United States intended to see that Brazil was the most powerful country in Latin-America.

● SOME BRITISH OFFICIALS, thoroughly informed on the progress of the war, are predicting that Germany will not be knocked out of the global struggle until the autumn of 1944.

These officials describe as "too optimistic" forecasts that Hitler's Reich will collapse before that time.

Very determined German resistance is looked for by many British officials, and they are not counting on a quick crack-up of German morale this time, as in the last war.

However, they concede that the Germans, once convinced that they are licked, probably will begin figuring on the best deal they can get from a surrender.

These Englishmen predict that the Prussian militarists and their political partners, the Nazis, will choose to die very hard indeed. They know the "jig is up" for them this time unless they can force a stalemate or pull some kind of fluke.

With a totally fatalistic spirit dominating, German divisions are expected to put up a terrific resistance—of which the battle for Naples is just a foretaste.

Some high British officials take this overall view of the war: The year 1944 will be one of bloody battles on the European continent, with Allied forces fighting major offensives and suffering heavy losses.

The German Army will become more and more a trapped beast, ringed in steel, and will show the ferocity and cunning of a cornered tiger.

The war with Japan will be a long and hard sea, air and land fight, and a great deal of time will be required to get the necessary shipping together and to make other preparations for the fight to death against the Nipponese on their own "home grounds."

JAPANESE-AMERICANS
THE Japanese-American problem is taking a new form. Those whose loyalty has been thoroughly investigated by the FBI and found trustworthy are being transferred to eastern and central parts of the country. One midwestern city already has 300, all under 30 years of age, most of them under 25. The government is now trying to find them work, and homes outside of the slum districts. Many are doing confidential work for Uncle Sam.
In view of the treachery displayed by so many Japanese fighting men, it is natural to suspect people of that race. And the FBI shares that tendency. Therefore, if these federal experts say that a Japanese-American is loyal, private citizens with fewer opportunities to know the truth should hesitate to question it.
Loyal Japanese-Americans have, because of their race, a hard row to hoe. It is not necessarily patriotism to make it harder.

FOOTBALL BY RADIO
IF you are planning to see the Notre Dame Navy game or some other football match of the same caliber, it may be wise to give up the idea. Unless you live where the game will be held, you will be unable to get tickets. The Office of Defense Transportation has asked all teams to restrict sales to residents of the immediate community. Last year, by presidential order, only residents of Annapolis could get tickets for the Army-Navy game held there. In 1943 the rule will be general.
Thus passes for the duration that widespread and pleasant college custom of the home-coming game, when all alumni who could beg, buy or steal transportation came to the big home game against their college's ancient rival. It was an event looked forward to a long time ahead, and remembered a long time afterward. This year such festivals are out.
Maybe the radio will do as a substitute. In fact it will have to.

"Falling off," Adam smiled at Brenda. "When are you going to ask me out to the old Leigh place again—to show you those sketches for remodeling the place?"
"I don't know. I hate burning in on married ladies—and you do seem to be much in demand."
Adam felt his face redden. "I like very much to come out," he said, "whenever it happens to be convenient."
"We'll set a date soon," said Brenda. "It's hard to plan an evening, now that rehearsing has begun. Mrs. Platt will keep us all on the jump."
Adam stopped his car and helped Brenda out. Then when he saw her safely in her own car, he drove off, speeding up as soon as he reached the main road.
"Why in heck don't you go for Brenda in a big way?" Jack asked. "I'm not her type," said Adam. "Town girl who makes success in big city doesn't fall for town boy who stayed at home—and stagnated."
"You haven't stagnated. You've gone as far in your way as she has in hers. Besides, she likes you."
"Listen, Jack," Adam said, "cut out matchmaking and stick to tool-making."
"Okay," said Jack, and fell silent.
But he was still puzzled about the car he had seen the night before. And had he been able to read Adam's mind, he would have discovered that he, too, was puzzled, and not a little worried.

Inside WASHINGTON
Armour, Envoy to Argentina, Hull's Rebuke of Buenos Aires May Not Return to His Post Government Causing Changes
Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—The chances that Norman Armour, ace career diplomat, will return to his post as United States ambassador to Argentina are fading fast.
Since Armour's return to Washington for consultation, Secretary of State Hull has made public a rebuke he administered the Buenos Aires government in correspondence with Admiral Segundo Storni, foreign minister in the Ramirez government.
Hull told Storni that Argentina could expect no lend-lease or other form of aid from Washington as long as Argentina failed to live up to her inter-American commitments to sever diplomatic relations with the Axis.
The Argentinean statesman had suggested that the United States give increased assistance to his country—and Hull's castigation led to Storni's resignation and a near crisis in Argentina.
Then, only last Sunday, Hull addressed the nation and, referring to Latin-American nations, said the United States had friendly dealings with all but one of the Americas.
Meanwhile, Armour has worked busily at the state department and not even seen reporters.
There have been reports that he might be named undersecretary of state to succeed Sumner Welles, who has resigned but whose resignation presumably lies unaccepted on President Roosevelt's desk.
One possible development might be that Roosevelt might name Welles as ambassador to Argentina while Armour took Welles' job at the department.

However, it is doubtful if Welles would accept the post—expert as he is in his favorite field of Latin-American affairs.
Moreover, Welles has never pulled his punches about Argentina's lack of co-operation in the war, while he has been a staunch champion of Brazil—Argentina's big rival south of the Rio Grande.
In fact, Welles reportedly once told a prominent Brazilian statesman that the United States intended to see that Brazil was the most powerful country in Latin-America.
● SOME BRITISH OFFICIALS, thoroughly informed on the progress of the war, are predicting that Germany will not be knocked out of the global struggle until the autumn of 1944.
These officials describe as "too optimistic" forecasts that Hitler's Reich will collapse before that time.
Very determined German resistance is looked for by many British officials, and they are not counting on a quick crack-up of German morale this time, as in the last war.
However, they concede that the Germans, once convinced that they are licked, probably will begin figuring on the best deal they can get from a surrender.
These Englishmen predict that the Prussian militarists and their political partners, the Nazis, will choose to die very hard indeed. They know the "jig is up" for them this time unless they can force a stalemate or pull some kind of fluke.
With a totally fatalistic spirit dominating, German divisions are expected to put up a terrific resistance—of which the battle for Naples is just a foretaste.
Some high British officials take this overall view of the war: The year 1944 will be one of bloody battles on the European continent, with Allied forces fighting major offensives and suffering heavy losses.
The German Army will become more and more a trapped beast, ringed in steel, and will show the ferocity and cunning of a cornered tiger.
The war with Japan will be a long and hard sea, air and land fight, and a great deal of time will be required to get the necessary shipping together and to make other preparations for the fight to death against the Nipponese on their own "home grounds."

The frock sketched here today is white crepe with a delicate face powder pinkish cast, a tint becoming to blonde, brunette or white coiffures, and the frock's fashion is becoming to any daytime event on the calendar, even including the role of wedding guest.

The basic style of this magnolia bluish-white crepe frock is shirtmaker. Shirred front details, jeweled buttons, adorn it.

And just as pleased are these same individuals to have their long while carrier, Maurice Martin back on the job again. And from June until a couple of weeks ago, what did Martin do? Learned in a Columbus shop how to be an expert meat cutter. And if and when there ever should be any in these parts to need cutting again, this Martin boy sure will know how it is done.

Kiwanis Ladies Hear Outstanding Program

Quarterly Event
Draws Crowd
of 85

Cincinnati Kiwanians and their ladies enjoyed one of the outstanding programs of the year Tuesday evening when the quarterly Kiwanis Ladies' Night was observed with a dinner meeting at Pickaway Arms.

Eighty-five persons were present to enjoy the evening. Bowls of brilliantly colored zinnias centered the tables where the dinner was served. Favors of nosegays of yellow and white pom-poms were presented to the ladies of the group.

Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati, presented by Renick W. Dunlap as "a man many of us think will be the next governor of Ohio," was the speaker. His address was interesting from start to finish, the speaker's humor and philosophy keeping the attention of his audience.

Music during the evening included two groups of solos by Miss Carolyn Herrmann, soprano, the singer being accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Karl Herrmann. While dinner was being served Miss Ruth Blum, the club's regular accompanist, played the piano. She also played for group singing which followed.

J. Harold Limback, president of the club, presided, announcing the annual election of officers next Monday. Hal Dean, chairman of a special committee in charge of a violin concert to be presented October 14 by Benno Rabinoff, urged Kiwanians to put forth efforts which will assure a capacity crowd in the high school auditorium.

Arrangements for the ladies' night meeting were in charge of Renick Dunlap and Leonard Snodgrass, club secretary.

Rosedale Garden Club

All officers of the Rosedale Garden club of Salt Creek township were re-elected Tuesday at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Dresbach of Hallsville. Miss Grace Dresbach and Mrs. Herman Dresbach served as assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Arthur Hinton, president, opened the meeting in the usual form and roll call was answered by members repeating names of garden magazines.

Mrs. Arthur Hickie read an interesting paper, "My Grandmother's Garden," in which she told of the many flowers which she remembered as being raised in the garden of long ago. Mrs. Guy Heffner read a lovely poem and Mrs. C. B. Pontious discussed "Cox Comb" and Mrs. Ollie Bowsher, "Zinnias."

Interesting to club members was the display of all-white flowers in white containers. Mrs. G. H. Armstrong and Miss Dresbach won prizes for their beautiful arrangements. In the display of miniature arrangements, Mrs. J. M. Boecher and Mrs. Cyrus Haines carried home the awards.

The delightful affair was concluded with a dessert course.

"Tis hard to break the tender cord,
When love has bound the heart
Tis hard, so hard to break the bond,
We must for ever part
Yet the Master hath need of him
And saith "Come"
Then fold him Oh! Father in Thine arms.

And let him henceforth be—
A message of love between
Our human hearts and Thine.

Single Victory Separates Team From Gonfalon; Roe In Splendid Form

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29—Victors in their first two games against the Indianapolis Indians, the Columbus Red Birds returned home today to meet the Indians in what may be the final game of the Association playoff.

First team to win three games is determined the champion of the league, winning the right to meet the International League titlist.

Preacher Roe, brilliant moundsmen, blanked the Indians Tuesday night, giving only four hits. Johnny Hutchings, former Cincinnati Red and Boston Brave, was the loser. He was touched safely six times.

Columbus scored single runs in the second, fourth and eighth innings.

By International News Service

Syracuse held the International league's Governor's Cup today and the right to meet the American Association playoff winner in the "little world" series after defeating Toronto last night, 2 to 0.

This final victory for the Chiefs gave the runner-up of the regular season four games to Toronto's two. Left-handed Arnold Carter, 14-game winner this year, shut the Maple Leafs out with six scattered hits. His team mates scored two runs off Nick Strincevich's six-hit pitching.

Carter made the first Syracuse hit in the third frame. He advanced to second on Goody Rosen's hit after knocking out an infield hit, himself. He scores on Sauer's single. The Tribe's winning run came in the ninth when West doubled to left with one away and scored all the way from second on Del Savio's high fly.

'25 DERBY WINNER DESTROYED

Flying Ebony . . . in May, 1925

FLYING EBONY, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1925, has been destroyed because of advanced age, according to his owner, Mrs. Russell Perkins. The race horse, who has been kept for many years on Mrs. Perkins' ranch near Santa Barbara, Cal., was a black colt by The Finn-Princess Mary, trained by W. B. Duke and bred by J. E. Madden. In the 1925 Derby, Flying Ebony, then owned by G. A. Cochran, was a member of the mutual field and went off at odds of $3.15 to 1. Piloted by the veteran Earl Sande, Flying Ebony took the lead at the half and stayed right there, winning by a length and a half over Captain Hal. Favorite, Quattrain, ran 12th. (International)

New Father-Draft Plan May End Baseball Loops

BY LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Will the new father-draft regulations kill baseball for the duration?

As the baseball clans begin gathering in New York for the World Series starting next Tuesday they are thinking less—and talking less—about the outcome of the Yankee-Cardinal encore and more and more about the future of the game itself.

With baseball rightly missing from the list of defensible occupations and with dependency no longer to be a reason for deferment—except in extreme cases—most of the onlookers quietly agree this may be the end. That is, unless something unforeseen turns up when pre-

Obituary

Harry Huffer, son of Isaac and Abigail Huffer was born October 12, 1876 and departed this life September 24, 1943 aged 66 years, 11 months 5 days. On July 4th, he was united in marriage to Florence Hatt. To this union were born ten children, six of whom survive. They are: Daniel, Ezra, Clarence, David, Roy, Elizabeth, Elmer and his wife Florence Huffer preceded him in death. On December 11th, 1927 he was again united in marriage with Nellie Cook who preceded him in death. He also leaves to mourn four brothers, Lawrence, Jesse, Charles and Cleveland Huffer and four sisters, Mrs. Belle See, Miss Stella Huffer and Mrs. Elvira Braskett, and Mrs. Josephine Hill; 9 grandchildren; and six stepchildren with hosts of friends and neighbors.

Mr. Huffer was a life long resident of Pickaway County. His deepest concern was his children and grandchildren. He was always ready to help those who needed help and will be sadly missed by all. When he was a resident of this community, he was a member of Darbyville church. Marked characteristics of Mr. Huffer were forthrightness of self and consideration for others.

"This hard to break the tender cord, When love has bound the heart, 'Tis hard, so hard to break the word, We must forever part. Yet the Master hath need of him and said: 'Not thou, Father in thine arms. And let him henceforth be—A message of love between—Our human hearts and Thine."

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the Minister for his comforting words and to all those who assisted in any way during the illness and after the death of our beloved father.

THE HUFFER FAMILY.

Single Victory Separates Team From Gonfalon; Roe In Splendid Form

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29—Victors in their first two games against the Indianapolis Indians, the Columbus Red Birds returned home today to meet the Indians in what may be the final game of the Association playoff.

First team to win three games is determined the champion of the league, winning the right to meet the International League titlist.

Preacher Roe, brilliant moundsman, blanked the Indians Tuesday night, giving only four hits. Johnny Hutchings, former Cincinnati Red and Boston Brave, was the loser. He was touched safely six times.

Columbus scored single runs in the second, fourth and eighth innings.

By International News Service
Syracuse held the International league's Governor's Cup today and the right to meet the American Association playoff winner in the "little world" series after defeating Toronto last night, 2 to 0.

This final victory for the Chiefs gave the runner-up of the regular season four games to Toronto's two. Left-handed Arnold Carter, 14-game winner this year, shut the Maple Leafs out with six scattered hits. His team mates scored two runs off Nick Strincevich's six-hit pitching.

Carter made the first Syracuse hit in the third frame. He advanced to second on Goody Rosen's hit after knocking out an infield hit, himself. He scores on Sauer's single. The Tribe's winning run came in the ninth when West doubled to left with one away and scored all the way from second on Del Savio's high fly.

'25 DERBY WINNER DESTROYED

Flying Ebony . . . in May, 1925

FLYING EBONY, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1925, has been destroyed because of advanced age, according to his owner, Mrs. Russell Perkins. The race horse, who has been kept for many years on Mrs. Perkins' ranch near Santa Barbara, Cal., was a black colt by The Finn-Princess Mary, trained by W. B. Duke and bred by J. E. Madden. In the 1925 Derby, Flying Ebony, then owned by G. A. Cochran, was a member of the mutual field and went off at odds of $3.15 to 1. Piloted by the veteran Earl Sande, Flying Ebony took the lead at the half and stayed right there, winning by a length and a half over Captain Hal. Favorite, Quatrain, ran 12th. (International)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—The St. Louis Cardinals now are credited with their 100th victory of the season, thanks to a fine performance by Lefty Max Lanier, who probably will get a chance to try his hand against the Yankees in the World Series next week.

The honor of sharing the century-win fell to the southpaw after Mort Cooper had failed in the opening of a double header with the Boston Braves yesterday. Against Cooper the Braves got away to an early lead and went on to victory by 6 to 5 in 13 innings, with the defeat being charged to Harry Brecheen, who relieved Cooper, the starter.

That ended a 16-game losing streak for the Braves, but Lanier put them right back in the red in the nightcap with a six-hit 7 to 1 triumph for his 15th win of the season.

The Pittsburgh Pirates climbed up into third place behind the Cards and Cincinnati Reds in the National league standings by dumping Brooklyn into fourth place with two defeats, 5 to 2 and 4 to 2.

The Reds meantime clinched second by downing the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 3 and 2 to 0. Joe Beggs hurling the shutout and allowing only four hits.

The Chicago Cubs slammed the cellar door on the New York Giants by sweeping both ends of a twin bill, 3 to 2 and 2 to 1. Paul Derringer won the opener in 10 innings for the 29th victory of his career.

In the American league, the Yanks were soundly thumped as the Cleveland Indians wound-up their appearances against the American league champions with a 11 to 3 victory.

Mel Harder was credited with the win, the 19th of his big league career. Marvin Breuer, ailing most of the season, was the Yankee starter and loser.

The Philadelphia Athletics used only one regular, Shortstop Irv Hall, and eight rookies to beat the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 3, while in the only game the Boston Red Sox tripped up the Detroit Tigers, 6 to 1.

What baseball probably will do—if this draft goes the way most likely at the moment—will be to try some stopgap or other for the duration. One major league has been proposed, unofficially, with the players to be pooled one way or another and sorted out among as many teams as they will reach.

Or it may be that with certain restrictions, some sports will be placed on a defensible basis—although this seems so far-fetched as to be scarcely worth mentioning—to

PHIL SILVERS GUEST

Phil Silvers, with or without his "licorice stick," will make an appearance on the Music Hall with Bing Crosby on Thursday. The popular half-hour is heard over NBC at 9 p. m.

Last time out with Bing, Phil insisted on playing his clarinet. Everyone from Bing to Trudy Erwin interrupted the great musician but Phil kept on playing. Silvers' latest movie is "The Lady Takes a Chance" in which he appeared with Jean Arthur.

Bing, Trudy, the Charioteers and the Music Makers will sing to the accompaniment of John Scott Trotter's orchestra. "Ukie" will be around, too. On the musical score, Bing and Trudy will duet on a popular song of yesterday, "The Way You Look Tonight." Bing will solo on a tune from his latest picture, "Dixie," "If You Please."

HUSSEY, AMECHE

Ruth Hussey, brunette beauty and one of Hollywood's top dramatic actresses, will star with Don Ameche, in a domestic comedy, "The Ideal Man," on "What's New?" show, October 2, at 7 p. m. over the Blue network. On the musical side of the full-hour broadcast, Dinah Shore will present the latest songs from the entertainment world.

As previously announced, Jack Douglas the scripter who made his debut as a comedian last week on "What's New?" has been held over for a return engagement on the show. Douglas' debut turned out

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Still another talent is being displayed by Lionel Barrymore, so successful that he has been signed for future appearances.

"The Ideal Man" is adapted from a recent John O'Hara story which appeared in the "New Yorker" magazine. The domestic comedy skit is particularly adapted to the talents of Ruth Hussey, who has recently emerged as the cinema's ideal wife. Her latest dramatic role in the films was her stellar portrayal of Mrs. Johnson, wife of the President who succeeded Lincoln, in "Tennessee Johnson."

"The Mayor of the Town," heard on CBS Wednesday nights. He has turned playwright. Barrymore, in collaboration with Anita Loos, has written "Old Buddha" which will be a stage vehicle for his sister, Ethel Barrymore. In addition to radio and screen acting, Lionel is also an etcher of repute, a songwriter and an artist.

Jimmy Durante's Hollywood star is certainly in the ascendancy. The Schnozzle, starred with Garry Moore on NBC Thursday nights and to be heard on CBS Friday nights starting October 5 doing two different shows weekly. . . . has been signed to a new MGM contract. He is currently appearing before the camera in "Two Sisters and a Sailor."

When Dinah Shore starts her new starring series on CBS Thursday, she'll have a special music salute for the men in the armed forces. They have requested "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey" and "I'll Get By," so Dinah will do both in a medley.

If the Army doesn't get him first, Jimmy Blair, baritone heard often on "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" over the Blue network Sunday nights, will become the new vocalist on the

"Raymond Scott Show" over CBS.

Jimmy's induction call is imminent, though.

Grantland Rice's starting date on Dr. Frank Black's concert series over NBC is Friday, October 1. For his 11th consecutive season, Rice will give five-minute analyses of coming football games and predict winners.

Ollie O'Toole, announcer on Horace Heidt's "Treasure Chest" over NBC Tuesday nights, will handle the announcing for all the bands to appear at Heidt's Trianon Ballroom in Hollywood starting

October 1. The bands will be heard from there over CBS.

WATERPROOF MATCH

ATLANTA, Ga. — The U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps has developed a waterproof match for use of American landing forces. Atlanta army men revealed today. A new wax with a melting point 160 degrees is used to coat ordinary kitchen matches. They can be submerged in water for a week without harm.

The Army Corps of Engineers has developed a giant lawnmower that can trim 40 acres in an hour. It is for use on air fields.

PHIL SILVERS GUEST

Phil Silvers, with or without his "licorice stick," will make an appearance on the Music Hall with Bing Crosby on Thursday. The popular half-hour is heard over NBC at 9 p. m.

Last time out with Bing, Phil insisted on playing his clarinet. Everyone from Bing to Trudy Erwin interrupted the great musician but Phil kept on playing. Silvers' latest movie is "The Lady Takes a Chance" in which he appeared with Jean Arthur.

Bing, Trudy, the Charleaters and the Music Malls will sing to the accompaniment of John Scott Trotter's orchestra. "Ukie" will be around, too. On the musical score, Bing and Trudy will duet on a popular song of yesterday, "The Way You Look Tonight." Bing will solo on a tune from his latest picture, "Dixie," "If You Please."

HUSSEY, AMECHE

Ruth Hussey, brunette beauty and one of Hollywood's top dramatic actresses, will star with Don Ameche, in a domestic comedy, "The Ideal Man," on "What's New?" show, October 2, at 7 p. m. over the Blue Network.

On the musical side of the full-hour broadcast, Dinah Shore will present the latest songs from the entertainment world.

As previously announced, Jack Douglas the scripter who made his debut as a comedian last week on "What's New?" has been held over for a return engagement on the show. Douglas' debut turned out

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Still another talent is being displayed by Lionel Barrymore, so successful that he has been signed for future appearances.

"The Ideal Man" is adapted from a recent John O'Hara story which appeared in the "New Yorker" magazine. The domestic comedy skit is particularly adapted to the talents of Ruth Hussey, who has recently emerged as the cinema's ideal wife. Her latest dramatic role in the films was her stellar portrayal of Mrs. Johnson, wife of the President who succeeded Lincoln, in "Tennessee Johnson."

When Dinah Shore starts her new starring series on CBS Thursday, she'll have a special music salute for the men in the armed forces. They have requested "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey" and "I'll Get By," so Dinah will do both in a medley.

If the Army doesn't get him first, Jimmy Blair, baritone heard often on "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" over the Blue network Sunday nights, will become the new vocalist on the

"Raymond Scott Show" over CBS. Jimmy's induction call is imminent, though.

Grantland Rice's starting date on Dr. Frank Black's concert series over NBC is Friday, October 1. For his 11th consecutive season Rice will give five-minute analyses of coming football games and predict winners.

October 1. The bands will be heard from there over CBS.

Clocks of County to Be Turned Back Sunday Morning

CENTRAL WAR TIME RETURNING TO DISTRICT

Return Of Confusion Seen With Return To Legal Clocking For State

SCHOOL SCHEDULES SET

City's Industrial Plants To Continue Operating On Fast Time

Clocks of Circleville and Pickaway county will be turned back at 3 a. m. next Sunday after which hour Central War Time will be the prevailing time schedule instead of Eastern War Time. The Eastern schedule, an hour faster than Central, has been in operation during the Summer months.

The clock change will be a general one with city and county co-operating in the program. Council fixed the October 3 date early in the Summer when it passed the ordinance to put the city on fast time during the Summer. The county commissioners, who voted to move the town clock ahead after considerable discussion, have agreed to have the clock restored to slow time in cooperation with the city.

Auditor Forrest Short, whose office clock has remained on slow time all Summer although his employees have been working on a fast time schedule, said the commissioners have agreed informally to the change although nothing has been put on the commissioners' minute book.

"They'll be glad to get the clock back on Ohio time," the auditor declared.

Confusion Expected

The confusion which prevailed prior to the city's adoption of fast time is certain to be resumed when the clocks are moved back. Bus and train schedules, postal service, federal offices in the courthouse will continue on Eastern War Time in accordance with federal regulations.

Schools of the city will operate on the prevailing Circleville time schedule, the hour schedule not being changed. Clocks will be turned back an hour and classes will be started at the same time, 9 o'clock. Classes will be dismissed at 12, will resume at 1:15 and be dismissed for the day at 4:15.

The hour schedule effective in Circleville was worked out in conference between the Circleville, Wayne township and Circleville township boards of education.

Circleville industrial plants will have a problem on their hands, too, although the Container Corporation will follow the Circleville time schedule completing, its office and factory being returned to Central War time Sunday. However, John W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co., and the Ralston Purina Co. will operate in a more difficult manner. Because of their constant use of railroads, factories at both industries will operate on fast time, while office forces will work on Central War time schedule, an hour slower. Clocks in the offices will be turned back with office crews going to work an hour earlier than at present, according to the clock, although they will be going at the same time so far as the sun is concerned.

Many other Ohio cities are changing their clocks this week, some have already taken similar action and others change their schedules a week later. Columbus time is changed the same time that Circleville changes its clocks.

SCIOTO RIVER DROPS BELOW NORMAL STAGE

Scioto river has fallen to its lowest mark in many months, observers at the disposal plant reporting the stream's stage to be two feet at the West Main street bridge.

All during the Summer the river remained from two to four feet above normal, but now it has fallen below normal for this time of the year.

Fishermen are having a field day at the river, taking many fish from the shallow waters.

Circleville's high temperature Tuesday was 82 degrees, with the thermometer slipping to 44 during the night. A year ago today the low reading was 30 degrees.

OHIO HISTORY DAY PROGRAM TO BE ON RADIO

Although next Sunday is the date for the annual Ohio History Day celebration at Logan Elm State Park, directors of the History Day association are again eliminating their event because of the war. Instead of the usual program which draws hundreds to the historic park each year, the association has arranged a radio interview in its place. This will be the second year that the History Day celebration has been eliminated because of the war, directors deciding to forego the event until the war is ended.

Sunday's interview, designed to keep the History Day event before the public even though the celebration will not be held, will be at 7:15 p. m. over WBNS, Columbus. The interview will be between Eugene Rigney of Chillicothe, president of the Ross County Historical Society and a director of the Ohio History Day association, and Johnny Jones, newspaper columnist and commentator for WBNS.

The subject chosen will be "The Preservation of the Famed Speech of Chief Logan and the Important Part of its Authenticity by Thomas Jefferson".

Logan Elm park will be open to the public Sunday for persons who wish to visit the scene of the annual meetings.

CENSUS BUREAU PLANS OFFICE IN CHILLICOTHE

U. S. Census Bureau is completing plans for opening an office of the special surveys division of the bureau in Chillicothe, the office to serve both Ross and Pickaway counties.

The office is being established as one of about 70 reporting offices now located throughout the United States, specializing in labor market activity surveys, but equipped also to make special sampling surveys for various bureaus of the federal government.

There have been similar reporting stations in Ohio for the last four years, the previous stations being at Eaton and Portsmouth, serving Preble and Scioto counties. Effective October 1, new offices are being set up at Cleveland and Chillicothe. Activities of the Eaton office are being expanded to serve Butler county.

The special surveys division of the office is being set up under supervision of Ben Wattenberg, Chicago, regional supervisor for Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

DUCK HUNTERS URGED TO SAVE BIRD FEATHERS

Circleville and Pickaway county men who hunt ducks are being given an opportunity to join in the war effort.

Sportsmen are being urged to send all body feathers under two and one-half inches in length to "Ducks Unlimited", 83 Columbia street, Seattle, Wash. Packages should be clearly marked "Waterfowl Feathers" to comply with federal and state regulations and may be sent collect.

Appeal is also made to sportsmen's clubs, sporting goods stores and others to establish local feather receiving stations where sportsmen may deposit feathers and from which bulk shipments may be made.

Feathers of wild ducks and geese are needed for lining high-altitude flying suits, sleeping bags and zero-proof parkas for men in the armed services.

Attache Angus Ward, whose wife is Finnish and hates the Russians. After dinner, Bullitt got up and cabled the President that American diplomats should not be permitted to marry other than American wives. In this, he was 95 percent right. For years American diplomacy has been warped and weakened by the fact that U. S. diplomats married foreign wives.

Today, for instance Ambassador

Norman Armour, one of the ablest and most fair-minded of U. S. envoys, probably is barred as undersecretary of state because he married a White Russian, Princess Myra Koudacheff. Actually, this would never affect Armour in his relations with Russia, but in the last three weeks, ever since the publicity given to Russian policies, the State department is bending over backward to avoid any appearance of being anti-Russian.

On the other side of the picture, however, young U. S. diplomats are not given enough time in their own country to get acquainted with American girls. They can't make love, propose, and persuade their fiancées to desert their parents for an unknown foreign country, all in a three-week visit. And they don't get home more than once every four years—unless they are among the wealthy inside the State department who can afford it.

Therefore, one fundamental need in American diplomacy is to let young diplomats come home every so often for a period of a year, during which they not only can mix with American youth of their own age, but also can get out in the Middle West, which really dominates the foreign policy of the United States, and see what the people are talking and thinking about (Until a few years ago every top executive in the State department was picked from east of the Allegheny mountains.

Also the marriage ban might be relaxed somewhat, especially regarding wives from Pan American countries where the Good Neighbor policy is important, and where marital union with a leading family may actually help a U. S. diplomat.

HULL vs. LEHMAN

Meanwhile, the question of personnel, which actually is the root problem inside the State department, has bobbed up in another revealing manner. Secretary Hull has refused to permit ex-Gov. Lehman of New York to appoint the personnel he wants for his Foreign Relief Administration.

Specifically he has banned Morris Rosenthal, prominent New York import-export man, a chief executive of the old Board of Economic Warfare.

Gov. Lehman, rated as one of the best executives New York ever had feels that he knows how to pick men, perhaps knows more about personnel than Secretary Hull. Also he feels that as long as he keeps in line with State department policy, the details of managing his office should be left to him.

At this writing, however, Hull continues adamant against Rosenthal's appointment. Rosenthal, recognized by Washington as a top notch executive, was friendly to Vice President Wallace, who refused recently to let Hull censor his speech on post-war peace made in Chicago.

Soldiers of the 18th Mass group at Gulfport, Miss., Army Air Forces Technical Training Command school for airplane mechanics, made their own day room furniture out of scrap lumber.
